

AI.WOMEN HACKATHON · HAMBURG · SEPT 2026

Anspruch

The money and rights foreign workers in Germany don't know they're owed.

An·spruch, noun (German): a legal claim – an entitlement you hold whether or not you know to ask for it.

THE HOOK

I've watched more than [10+] people move to Germany for work — and never claim a single euro of it back.

Relocation alone is worth up to €964, plus €643 per family member. Nobody told them it was theirs to ask for. I almost didn't ask either.

IN BEARBEITUNG

Real angle, real math — the exact headcount just needs to hold up if a judge asks "how do you know?" Confirm the number (or soften to "dozens" / "everyone I know who moved here") before it goes on stage.

Needs: a number you can defend on the spot — from memory, or from the interview round this week.

PROBLEM

Nothing pays you automatically.

- §1 Every entitlement requires an application — silence gets you nothing.
- §2 Backdating is narrow. Kindergeld: 6 months. Bürgergeld: none. Miss the window, lose the money.
- §3 The information exists — in Amtsdeutsch, the dense bureaucratic German even natives struggle to parse.

If you don't know the term for what you're owed, you can't search for it.

MARKET SIZE

A blind spot the size of a country's workforce.

6,53 Mio.

foreign workers in Germany — 16.7% of the workforce, end of 2025

800–1.500 €

average first-year tax refund for newcomers

964 €

relocation cost flat-rate deduction (+643 € per family member)

1.260 €

maximum annual Homeoffice-Pauschale

This isn't new. Germany already sits on money it's designed to pay out — and doesn't.

40% claim it

60% never do

■ Households claiming Grundsicherung im Alter ❌ Eligible households that never apply — ≈ €2bn stays unpaid, every year

WHY NOW

The window just opened.

- German administration is finally digitizing — the Once-Only principle means fewer paper trails to chase by hand.
- LLMs can now reliably parse dense German government forms and payslips — that parsing layer didn't exist three years ago.
- Welfare and tax rules keep shifting — 2026's Bürgergeld → Grundsicherung reform is the latest — more churn than any one person can track alone.

SOLUTION

One input. Every entitlement, scanned.

01

Upload

A payslip, a lease, or a few plain-language questions answered.

02

Scan

Matched against tax, labor-law, and subsidy rules — all of them, not one form at a time.

03

Claim

A drafted application, in plain language, ready to submit.

Tax refund guidance is the one row Taxfix already does well — it's the proven hook that gets people in the door. We don't out-build them there. Everything below that row is white space nobody has bundled with it.

BUSINESS MODEL

Free where people can't pay. Paid where the value lands.

B2C

Free, always

The scan costs nothing. It's the acquisition channel and the trust layer — not the revenue line.

B2B

Paid

Corporate HR — an onboarding benefit for international hires.
Relocation providers — a bundled add-on to services they already charge for.

GO-TO-MARKET

Start narrow. Hessen and Hamburg, then outward.

Foreign-worker communities

Hessen, Frankfurt & Hamburg – expat groups, company ERGs, the
hackathon network itself

Word of mouth

Referral inside the same networks

Corporate HR

Bundled into onboarding
for international hires

A narrow entry point – not a small market. Hamburg first because that's where the earliest believers already are.

WHERE THIS GOES

The model, not a promise.

YEAR 1 — PILOT

≈€12K ARRFree scan users 3,000Paying B2B accounts 3

Hessen, Frankfurt & Hamburg. Prove the scan finds real money; land 3 corporate HR pilots.

YEAR 3 — NATIONAL

≈€240K ARRFree scan users 60,000Paying B2B accounts 45

IHK and relocation-firm channels live. First renewals prove retention, not just a first sale.

YEAR 5 — CATEGORY

≈€1.6M ARRFree scan users 250,000Paying B2B accounts 190

Category default for onboarding international hires. Adjacent markets (AT, NL) open next.

Illustrative model, assumptions shown so they can be stress-tested — not verified financials. B2C: 5→10% of free-scan users convert to a €10-15 paid filing-assist action. B2B: €20-25 per employee/year via corporate HR (avg. ~150 employees/account), plus flat annual bundle fees from relocation-provider partners.

WHY ME

Why me

COMMERCIAL

10 years in FMCG commercial planning — reading regulation and margin at the same time.

TECHNICAL

Background in data scraping and analysis — I build the evidence, I don't just claim it.

PERSONAL

I'm the target user: the foreigner working in Hessen who almost let paid days expire without knowing they existed.

ASK

What we need next — pick on the day.

IF SOLO

A technical teammate

For the next 48 hours, plus one warm intro to a Hessen-based corporate HR contact to pilot the free scan.

IF TEAM FORMS

A shared commit

Two working demo screens by 6pm Day 1, and agreement to run the interview validation before building further.

IF PITCHING JUDGES

A reality check + intro

Feedback on whether corporate HR is the right first payer, and one intro to a relocation firm or IHK contact.

Drafted now so nothing is decided from a blank slide — final pick happens once the team and room are known.
